CENERAL JOSEPH R. JOHNSTON'S

NARRATIVE OF MILITARY OPERATIONS, directed by him during the late war between the States.
This work is the first authentic contribution, from a Southern military source, of material for the future historian, and is written in the terse, incisive and vivid style for which its eminent author is so justly renowned.
The correspondence between General Johnston and the late Confederate government lifts the curtain on much that perplexed the understanding of people North and coath during the progress of the struggle. LETTER FROM GENERAL SHERMAN, HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE UNITED STATES,
Messrs. D. Applieros & Co., 50 Broadway, New York:
Dear Sins—I have your favor of the 30th repeating what you said to me in person yesterday, that you have for publication the manuscript of General Johnston's "Agrative of Military Operations directed by him during the Late War between the States."
Without the least hesitation I advise its immediate publication, for I believe it will have a most extensive sale at the North, as well as South, and even in Europe.
Don't wait for the slow process of getting subscriptiona I know plenty of men who would buy the book instantly who would not subscribe.
General Johnston is most favorably known to the military world, and is regarded by many as the most skilltulg general on the Southern side. He is also ready with his pen, and whatever he records will receive the closest attention by students on the art of war on this continent, and will enter largely into the future military history of the civil war.
With great respect, your obedient servant.

and will enter larges; the civil war.
With great respect, your obedient servant, W. T. SHERMAN, General.
